Foreword

The ancient Egyptians believed that once every 500 years the phoenix, a beautiful bird, was consumed by fire, only to renew itself and rise again from the ashes. Mythology has yielded to reality as our school undergoes a renewal of its own. The phoenix, then, is our symbol, as the new emerges from the old and we, the Graduating Class of 1965, begin to build the future upon the past.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF NEW YORK

JAMES MONROE HIGH SCHOOL

1300 BOYNTON AVENUE
BRONX, N. Y. 10472

OSCAR DOMBROW
Principal

June 1965

Dear Friends:

The inevitability of change is a social axiom; the adjustment to change is a social necessity. All we need do is look about us to see the multiple wonders that are the constant creation of man's genius. All we must do is realize how much this procession of wonders commands constant change in our ways of living, in our patterns of thinking.

Adjustment to modernization inconveniences and expectations of beneficial changes are a current experience for us at James Monroe. The impact of renovation is so profound that it has inspired our Monrovia theme. In our local, national, and international community, the insistence for social change is so great that wisdom and statesmanship are essential to determine when to analyze and evaluate and when to act. It is the wise statesman who can recognize justifiable demands and can lead in their successful adoption. It is the wise citizen who can discard accepted practices and accustomed judgments and acknowledge new attitudes and readjusted ideas. To favor reasoned change as a way of life is to avoid the agony of social conflict and crisis.

However, we must resist change that threatens to compromise our democratic ideals and ethical principles. The inalienable rights of man venerated in the Declaration of Independence and guaranteed in our Constitution are the foundation of our society. These immutable rights and inescapable responsibilities have been the brick and mortar that have structured our great nation. To tamper with them is to undermine the spirit, the promise, and the glory that is America.

Yes, change is a necessity; modernization and readjustment are the evidence of change; but ideals and principles dare not be sacrificed to change. You, as citizens, must adjust your thinking and your reactions to these fundamentals of democratic living if our nation is to continue to flourish.

Cordially,

Oscar Dombrow

RENAISSANCE

We won't be here when the wires are tucked back into the walls and the water fountains spout again, when the kitchen is unveiled and the clocks all tell the same time, when fluorescent lights shine upon a refurbished, re-furnished, refinished James Monroe High School. No, we won't be here when . . . but we certainly were here during!

The sign outside the school building calls our renovation "a modernization." To us, however, renovation is the rat-a-tat of a jackhammer competing with typing, the shower of plaster coating our history notes, the murmur of the P.A. system pleading during math . . . "Will Richie the electrician please come to the office? . . ." It's climbing from the second floor to the fifth to find a greeting on the door . . . "English 810 will meet in Room 219 today . . ." It's wishing the hot food were back . . . "I'm so tired of tuna fish . . ."

Renovation is the lost and found turning into a plastered wall, the Monroe Mirror Office turning into a men's rest room, and the school turning into a disaster area. Renovation is cubicles and cubbyholes carved out of corners, and team teaching in a room large enough to hold a team. Renovation is leaving the room to go to a place that isn't there . . . "Hey, where's the bathroom? . . . Who took the bannisters? . . . Whatever happened to September? . . ."

Like the school building itself, education at James Monroe is a combination of the old and the new. The ancient concepts of geometry and calculus share their domain with a computer, acquired a year ago by the math department. An IBM key punch—price: $1,000—systematically produces, duplicates, and files thousands of cards for the accounting department in a matter of minutes. But this marvel of the machine age has not yet replaced its inventor, and the human hand still copies, carefully, completely, conscientiously, the entries into the bookkeeper's ledger.

A modern language laboratory facilitates the learning of three relatively recent languages, Italian, Spanish, and French, while renovated classrooms provide a modern setting for Hebrew and Chinese, two of the world's oldest tongues. And in the English classroom, "forsooth" of Shakespeare's England and "astrotwins" of space-age America mingle and mix magically, until the vocabularies of the old and the new alike are mastered.

The ancient Egyptian technique of designing and planning out a structure on paper before building it is taught in modern mechanical drawing rooms just rebuilt for the art department. Conversely, optical art (paintings that dazzle the eye) and composite sculpture, an innovation in the arts, are being taught in pre-renovated art rooms. And in an up-to-date music suite, the classical quartets of Beethoven and the jazz quartets of Brubeck bounce boldly off an acoustical ceiling.

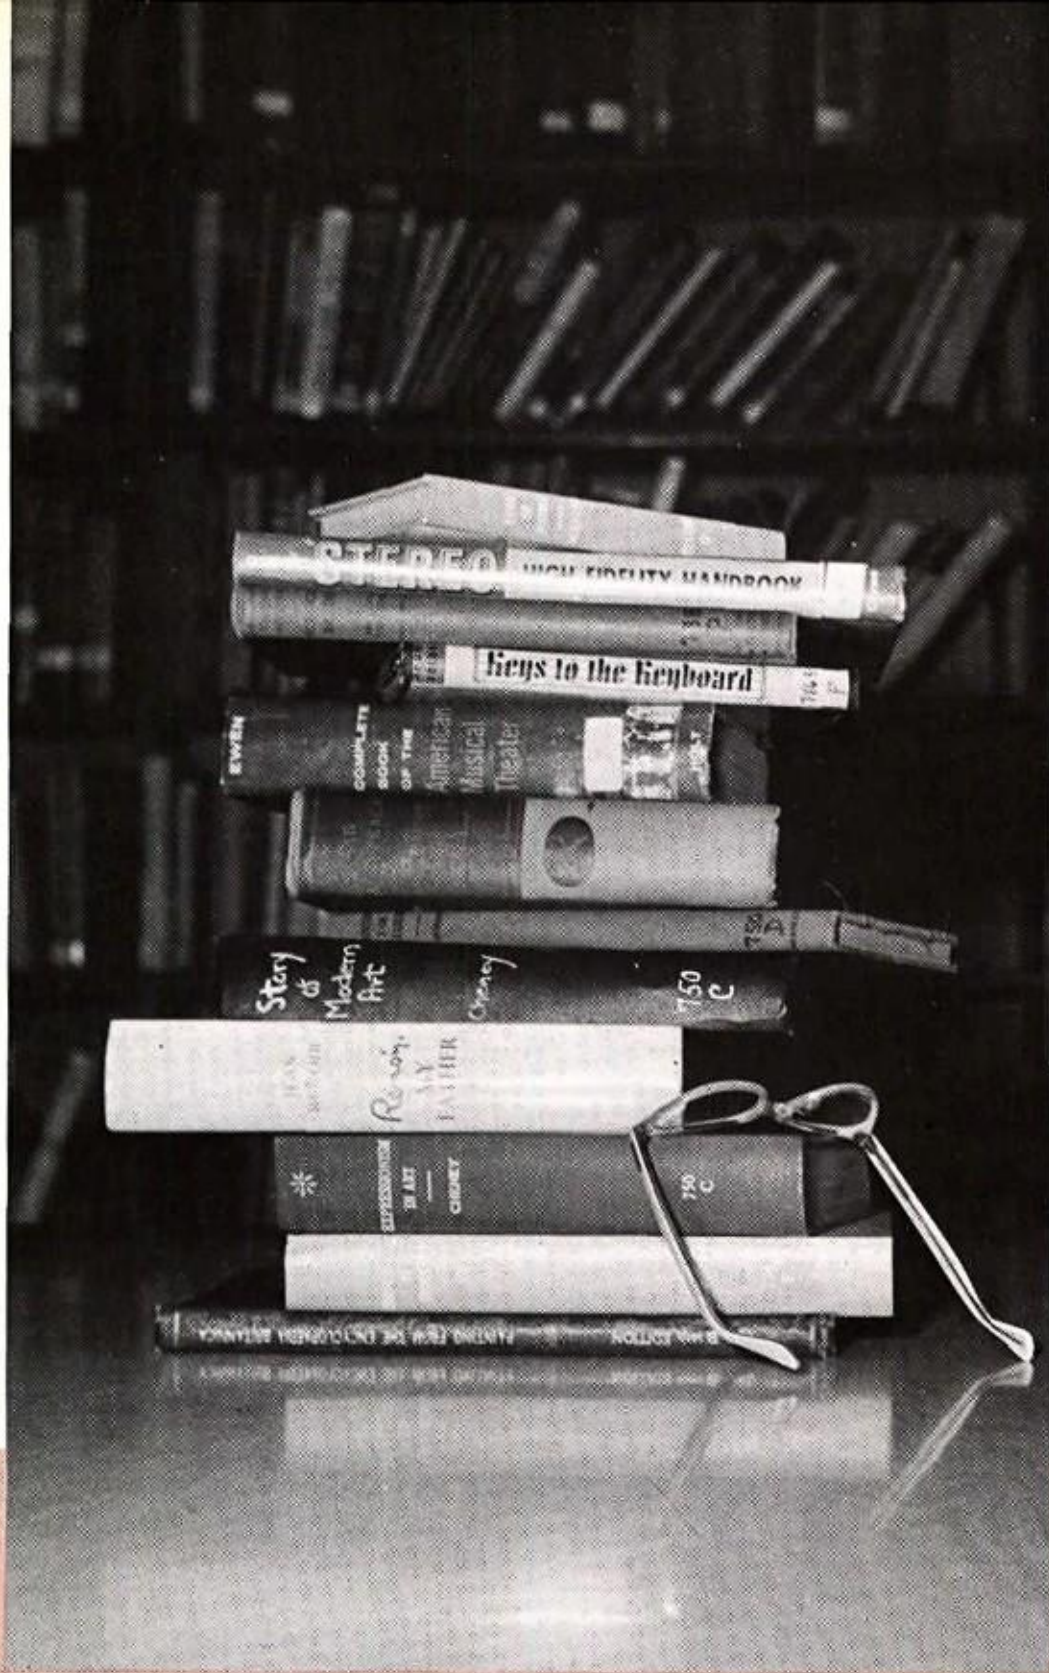

The principles of gravity and nuclear fission, the research of Galileo and Einstein, and the vision of Mendel and Darwin command equally the attention of young students of the sciences for whom Monroe is now equipping a special wing where the yet-to-be-discovered may be sought.

Similarly in social studies the past provides the basis for the present and the key to the future. In our classrooms, history reaches from Sparta to Selma, from feudalism to freedom, from Magna Carta to Atlantic Charter, from James Monroe to James Monroe.

The by-words of today's business world are speed, accuracy, and competence. So, too, in secretarial studies classrooms. There, Egyptian word-pictures, hieroglyphics, find kinship with stenography, the modern language of symbols. Steno, however, reflects the rapid pace at which twentieth-century America moves, and as we fly at heretofore undreamed of speeds, so the stenography student's pen advances across her pad and the typist's fingers fly across the keys.

All of the foregoing aspects of Monroe's curriculum reflect a deep concern for the mind. Each day, however, in our gymnasiums, on our fields, in our pool, a very old concept is renewed: a sound mind within a sound body. And so both health education departments provide a varied program designed to develop physically fit, mentally alert young men and women.

The past is history. The present is recorded above. The future waits.

ATHLETICS

This year the athletic schedule was full and exciting. The health education department fielded eleven teams, football, baseball, basketball, swimming, track, bowling, cross country, tennis, handball, golf, and soccer, all of which exhibited fine sportsmanship and team play throughout their respective seasons.

Topping all, of course, was the performance of the football team. Coached by Mr. Len Wechter, the gridgers broke a four-year, 28-game losing streak and wound up the season with a 4-3-1 won-lost record. Outstanding players for the squad were Tony Pandolfo, Joe Sweatt, Mickey DeVivo, John Clohessy, Hector Acevedo, and Jeff Glassroth. These stars, coupled with the rest of the squad, held Clinton scoreless in the first half of the traditional Thanksgiving encounter, only to be overpowered by the Governors in the final two periods. We Monroviens like to remember the first half, which represented the fight and drive displayed by the gridgers all season.

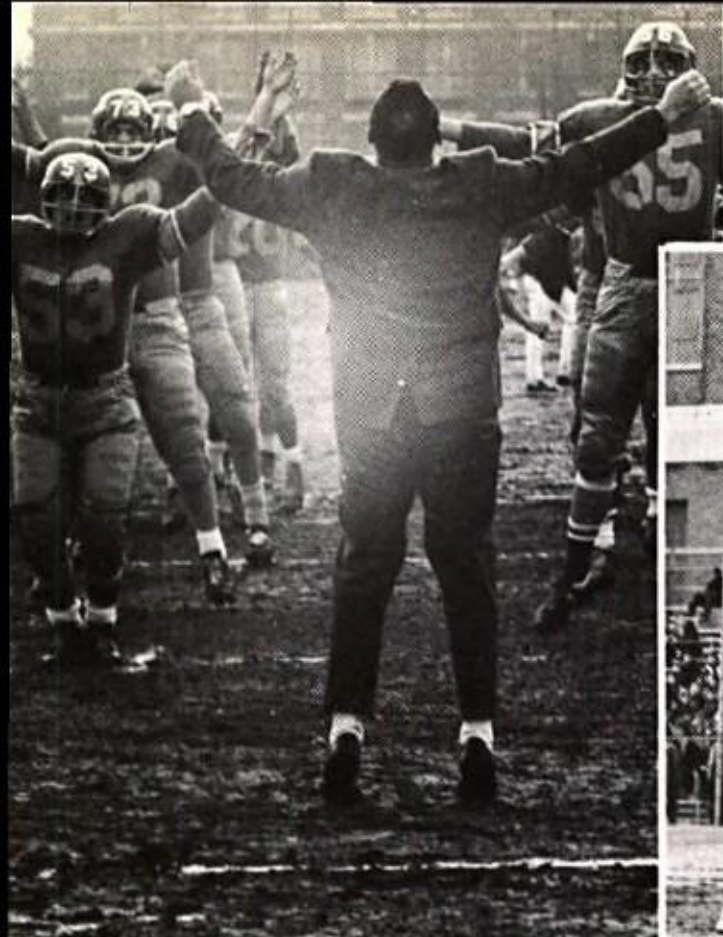

The swimming team, under the guidance of Coach Bob Bazzini, finished the season with a 4-4 won-lost record. The squad consisted mainly of lower classman, with sophomore Ed Rothstein pacing the team and seniors Marc Silverman, Lloyd Friedman, Ben Brody, and Ken Grabowski contributing greatly.

One of Monroe's perennial Bronx champs was the bowling squad, this year dethroned by Columbus, who went on to the city crown. Coach Mike Sandman had an inexperienced team to work with, but did a fine job of organizing the boys. Captain Richie Lowenstein and Howie Rindner were the team's top performers, both averaging over 183, but they received a lot of help from Bob Simon, Mark Shikowitz, Paul Blankfeld, Doug Gribin, and Steve Fink, all seniors. The keglers wound up in second place, with an 8-2 record.

The cross-country squad, under the tutelage of Mr. Thomas Mulkeen, found that the competition was extremely tough. Greg Jones was the best man, but he was closely followed by Mark Bowin, John Talavera, and Mel Castro, all seniors. The track team had a poor indoor season, due to lack of facilities, but such runners as hurdler Tom Harris and middle-distance man Wilfred Falu shone. According to Coach John Jangl, we should look for a strong team to represent us in the outdoor season because of such runners as Larry Mitchell, Nelson Morrison, Frank Youngstein, and Howie Herrnsstadt, in addition to those mentioned above.

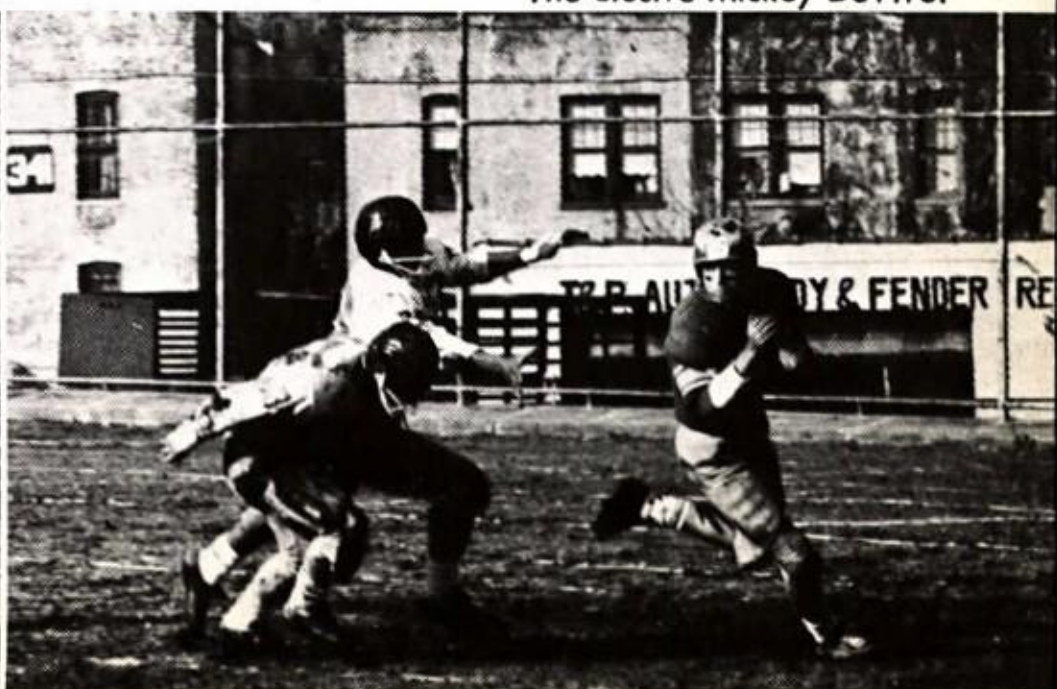

Football

Football Queen Dina Vamvakis and her retinue.

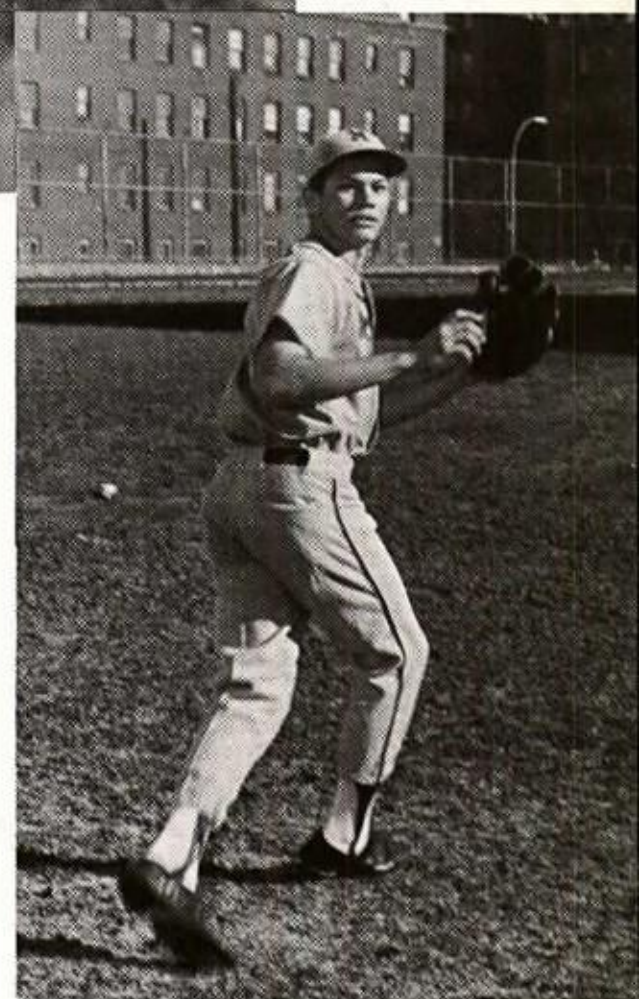

The elusive Mickey DeVivo.

The pride of Monroe is, of course, the baseball team. Their hopes lie with the bat of Sal Cannizzaro and the pitching arms of Bob Crosby and "Shotty" Jones. Sal was all-city first team last season as a junior and is a sure repeater. Bob, in his two seasons as an Eagle hurler, has a 17-3 won-lost record and two of those three losses were handed to him by the PSAL City Champions of that year. "Shotty", a junior, has never met defeat and hopes to continue his perfect record through this season. Coach Joe Consagra says the main competition for the coveted Bronx title will come from the Explorers of Columbus, and he sees Stephen Mazza, Ivan Miranda, Billy Mercado, Melvin Small, Vinnie D'Amico, Rolando Rivera, and Marco Macaluso as strong support for the big three.

Tennis, golf, and handball, all spring sports, were depleted because of graduation. They also are teams made up predominately of lower classman. Richy Brecher will lead the tennis squad, Ed Kahn will top the golf team, and Allen Gendler will head the wallmen. The latter team is hoping to regain the title they lost last season.

MOMENTS TO REMEMBER

Snatches . . .

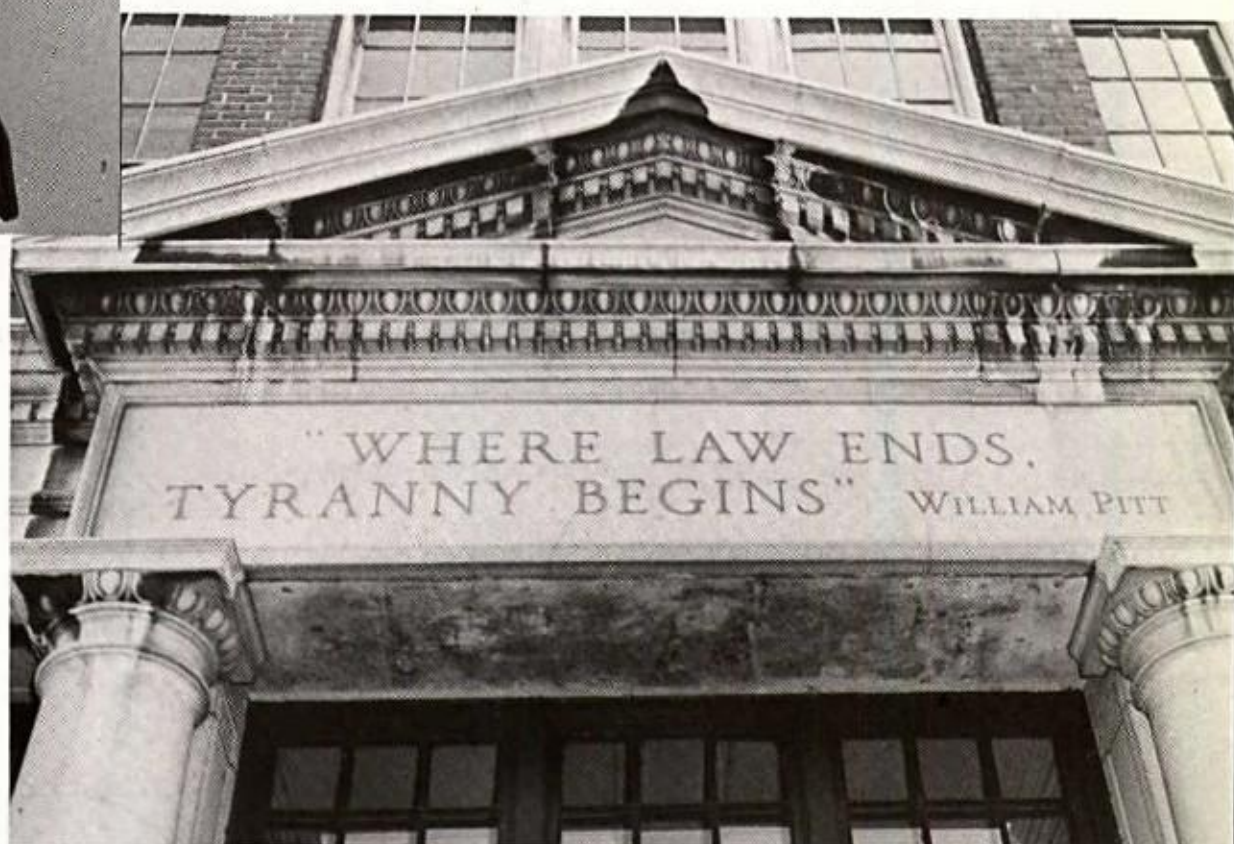

Everything comes back in snatches . . .

Zero period . . .

Beep . . .

Gong . . .

Ding . . .

Tuna fish . . .

"Please disregard the beeps . . ."

"Whatever happened to Sarah Hoffman?"

"She's making soda."

"Point and flex."

Green potato chips . . .

"Hamlet?"

"There will be a slight change in today's schedule."

"Hamlet who?"

Serene beneath the heaven's gold . . .

The Black Forest Mazurka . . .

"Will the owner of the car license number 111 301 32222 please move it or . . ."

"Hey! Who took my chair?"

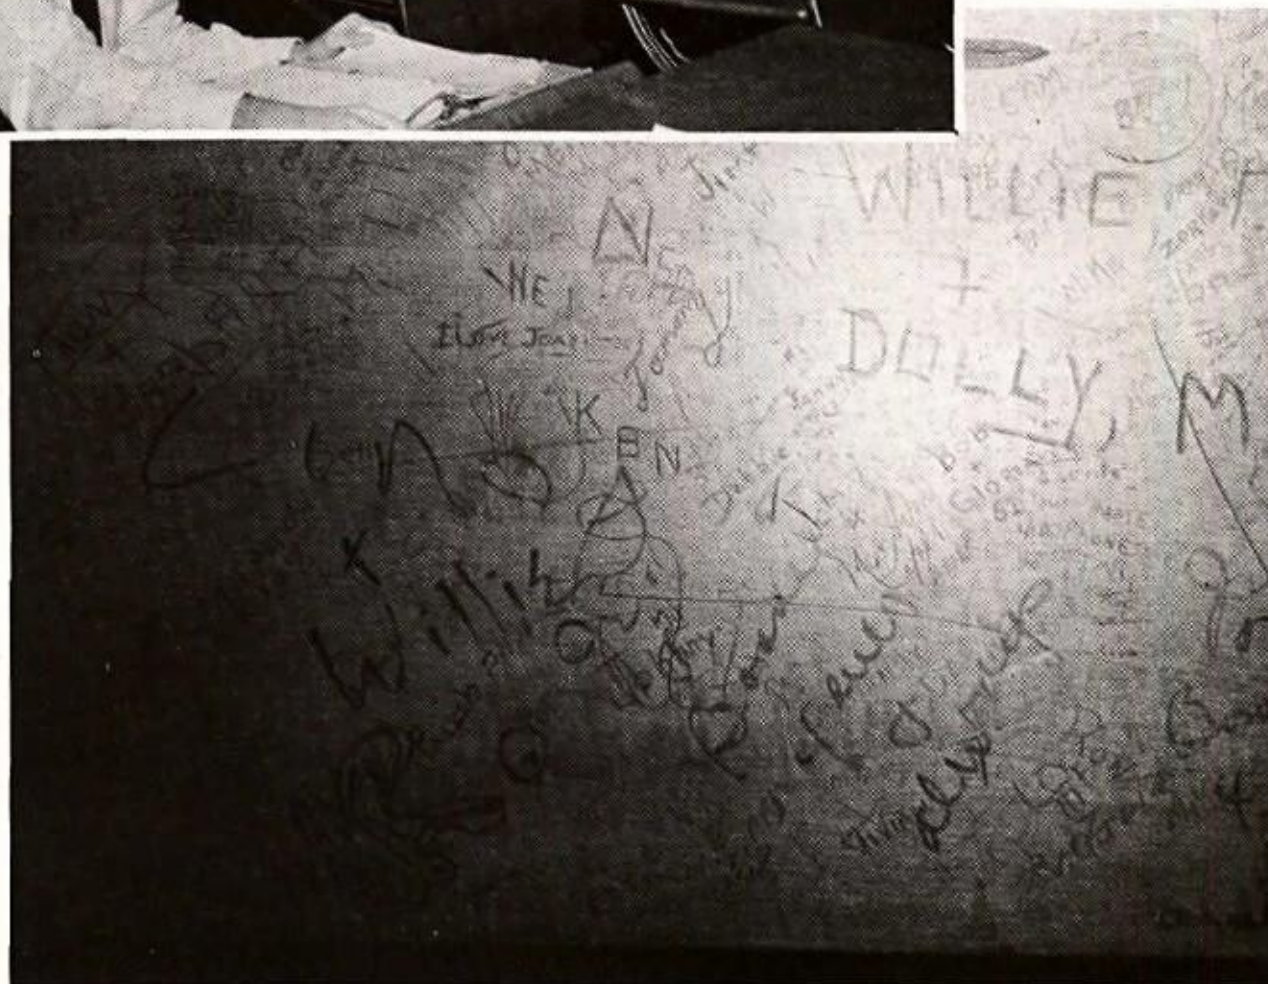

"You are the aristocrats of James Monroe."

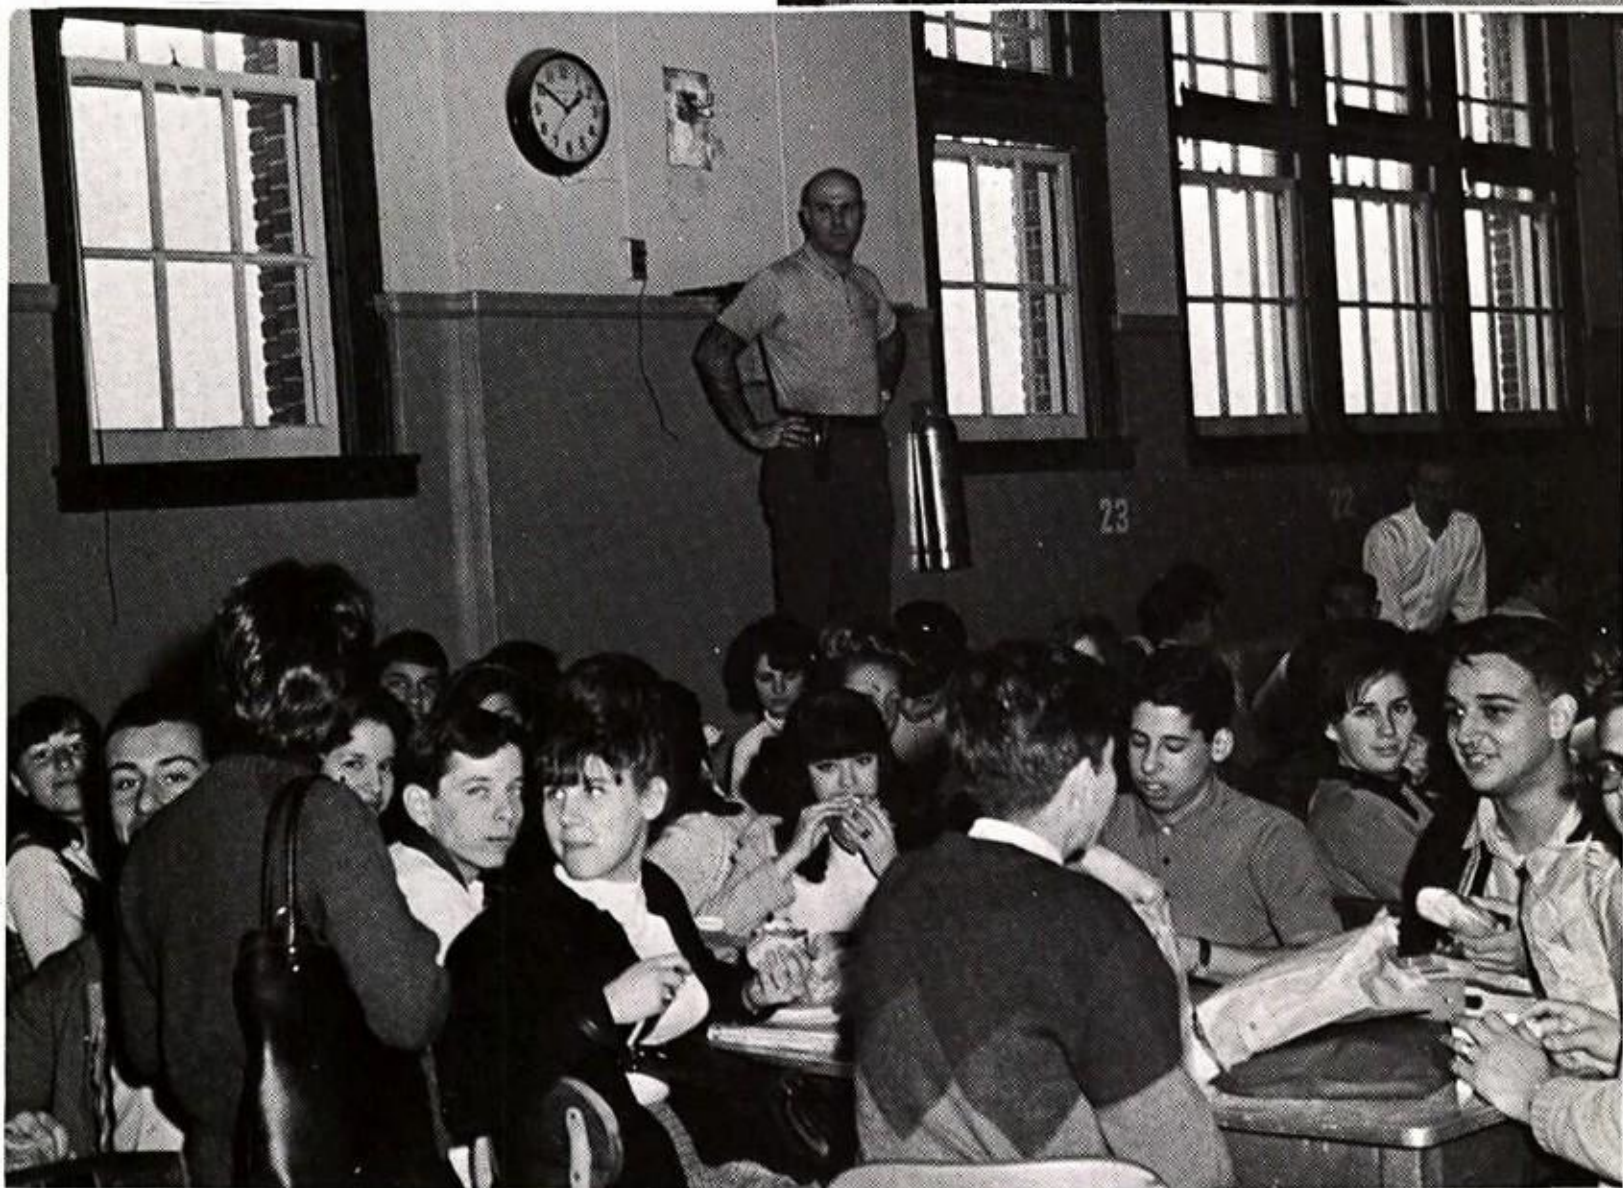

Snatches . . .

"Who is Richie the electrician?"

"Vote for me for Sarah Heartburn."

Mashed potatoes . . .

"Thank goodness it's Friday!"

Beep . . .

"This is the clean-up phase of the period."

H₂S in the chem lab—P.U.

"No one will be permitted to leave the building until the tape recorder is found."

Gong . . .

"Remember to sign the declaration . . ."

"Will the teachers involved in Plan B please report to . . ."

"What do you mean, the history final was yesterday?"

"Who killed Polonius?"

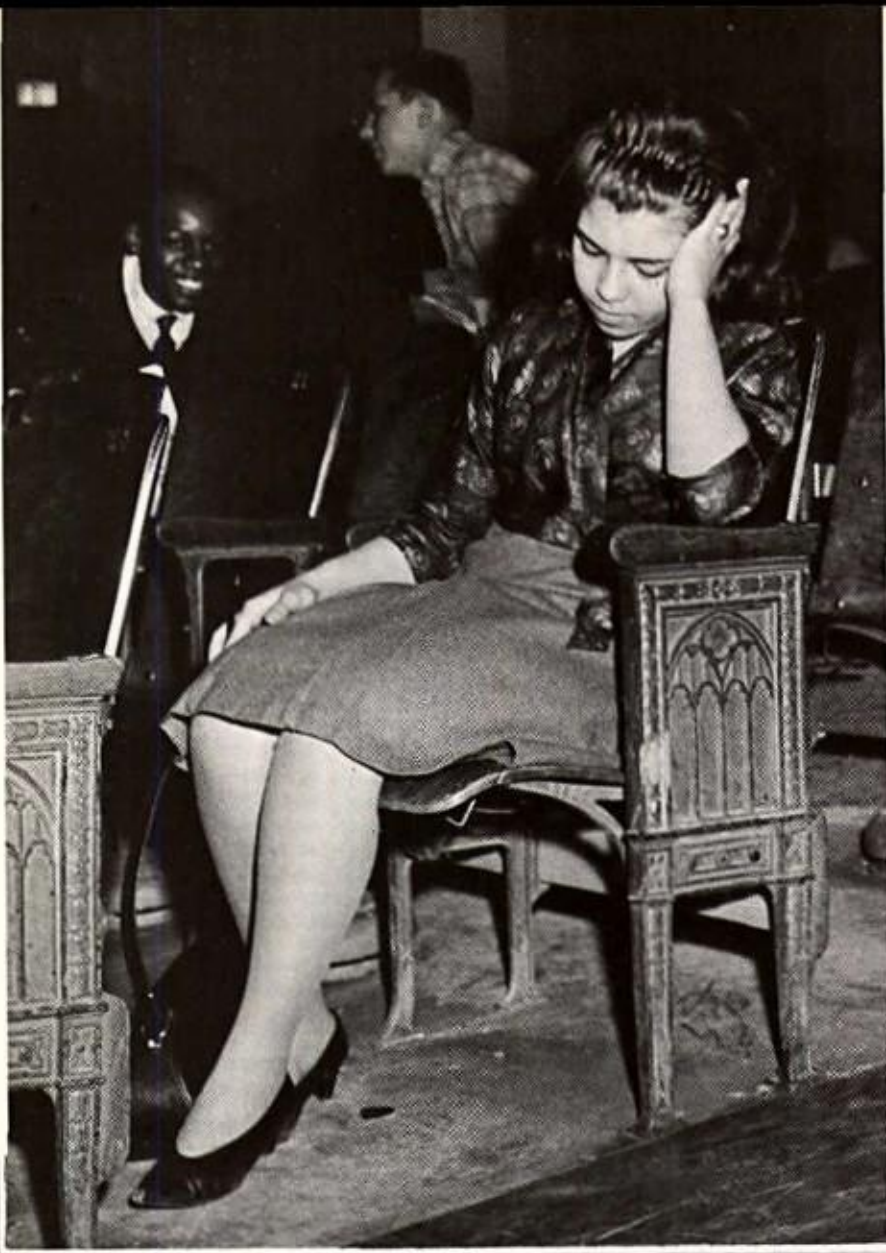

Ding . . .

Beep . . .

"Whatever happened to 50 cents G.O. dues?"

Gong . . .

Ding . . .

Everything comes back in . . . snatches . . .

Snatches . . .

We waited two years to become the greatest senior class Monroe had ever seen. The year opened in September and to our surprise things weren't very different from our junior year. It was program cards, delaney cards, guidance counseling sessions and still more delaney cards. Then at last it happened: something to break the monotony. Signs and posters began springing up all around the school. "LBJ for President . . . Helene for advertising manager . . ." It was time for senior elections . . .

Things went back to normal: homework, tests, and boredom. Suddenly there were whispers in the halls. Something was brewing. Excitement grew as the announcement was made that there would be a ball to crown senior celebrities. The night grew near and everyone was tense. The voice spoke, "The nominees are . . . The WINNER is . . ."

"Your appointment for graduation pictures is October 23 . . ." "Tie?" "On!" Sport jacket in hand, we set out for Delma, hoping to make it downtown in one piece. It rained that day . . . Murderers! . . .

Weeks passed and once again the mass of posters began appearing in the halls. A swim party! "Hey, Ma! Where's my bathing suit?" "Bathing suit? It's snowing out!" We went . . .

Regents week was over and a big day approached for some seniors—January graduation. But this year it was different—the January grads graduated in February . . . A few days later, breakfast at Monroe, dinner at the Latin Quarter . . .

Students raced through the halls—yearbook deadline was close. The staff, half-hysterical, half-exhausted, worked into the 17th period of the afternoon. "Remember the editor-in-chief?" "Yeah?" "Russian roulette! . . ."

It was Boomin' Baretz, Set-shot Sam, Murderous Mulkeen and the rest of the boys against Us, the Greatest! All of us knew the seniors would show those teachers that basketball is a game for youth. We lost . . .

March—and we began sharpening the blades on our ice skates. "Ouch, my finger! . . ." The days passed slowly until the day of the Bear Mountain trip. The best part was the back of the bus ride. Nearly drove the driver crazy. "Did you say nearly? . . ."

Blues, greens, yellows for the others. For the Greatest—red! We strutted around the school wearing our senior hats and pins. This was our day, Senior Day! Cupcakes, an afternoon dance . . . the monkey, the alley cat, the mouse—the fox trot???

Senior Show? . . . What show? . . . Where? . . . Oh, yeah? . . . Who? . . . Both of them, eh? . . . When? . . . Senior Show? . . . SENIOR SHOW!!!

Him: Tuxedos? Nah. Black suit? Nah. What then? Uh, Uh, CHINOS!

Her: Skirt and blouse? Nah. Party dress? Nah. Cocktail dress? Nah. What then? Uh, Uh, FORMAL GOWN . . .

Nervous, but very proud, we stood on the field before our parents and teachers waiting for the ceremony to end and, in a strange way, hoping it never would. This was our year: we made it, we lived it, we loved it!

"I'd rather fight than switch!"

12-11 • MR. WAISSAR

President—Vivian Santullo
Treasurer—Cheryl Spooner

Vice-President—Karen Sauter
Secretary—Susan Minichello

Mr. Waissar:

Teachers like him we like the best
A regular fellow who can take a jest.

Carmine Aversano:
As modest as he is witty
(That's what he thinks).
Eileen Backman:
When this girl begins to speak
She is good for half a week.
Paul Bolognese:
Looks shy, acts shy,
But really is a swell guy.
Blanca Bonafe:
Sweet as sugar, lots of fun
She has a smile for everyone.
Linda Braciadieta:
Beautiful eyes she does own,
Many boys have asked for her phone.
Sheila Cannon:
All the boys would run for miles
For one of her charming smiles.
MaryAnn Coniglio:
One in a million.
Sally Costanzo:
Agreeable and full of fun
Well liked by everyone.
Jackie Donis:
What do I care how tall I'll be,
As long as the world looks up to me.
Sandra Diaz:
Beauty and brains—A nice combination.
Lorraine Esposito:
Nice gal
Nice pal.

Edwin Guzman:
Edwin Guzman will make a good husband.
Charles Hurley:
A promising student—
Always promising to do better.
Clive Jerman:
Tall, dark, and handsome.
James Jesserman:
Always smiling; always bright
That's the kind of boy we like.
George Kent:
He's a very quiet fellow indeed.
Alan Koffler:
Blow Gabriel, blow.
Rosalie Lubrano:
Here is a lass who collects in class,
For the weekly bus pass.
Joseph Marts:
Strong silent type.
JoAnne Mastriaco:
One-two-three-four
Who do all the boys adore.
Maureen McKenna:
It's she and Tony all the way.
Carmen Mercado:
Sugar and spice and all that's nice.
Susan Minichello:
A pretty face this girl does own
But only Herb has her phone.

Lucille Ricci:
Mike's dark eyed beauty.
Lucy Rodriguez:
Good things come in small packages.
Lourdes Santiago:
On the P.T. honor roll.
Vivian Santullo:
Here is the President of the class,
A mighty cute and peppy lass.
Angela Santiago:
A nice girl with a quiet way.
Karen Sauter:
What a blond and it's real
She's got plenty of appeal.
Nina Scotti:
You need not know how to cook,
For many boys just like to look.
Greta Sholachman:
Five feet two eyes of brown
You should see her go to town.
Joyce Simmons:
Good things don't always come in small packages.
Cheryl Spooner:
One of the best athletes
Monroe has known.
Andrew Yiankou:
He is one who shall not stop
Till he has reached the top.

MRS. STRICKER

We, class 12-17, of Monroe

Have always been on the go.

Tests and homework have kept us busy,

Regents and finals have made us dizzy;

Our dream is to graduate in
June '65,

Here's hoping that we all survive.

And to our fellow Seniors,
we wish success,

Lots of luck and happiness!

US COOL
"KATZ" of

MRS. KLAF

12-24

and

MRS. ROCHMIS

One year, two years, three years, four,

You grow to like each more and more,

But standing out from all the rest,

Your Senior year, by far, is best.
